

Samuel Beckett Civic Campus launches

In a major boost for public services in the wider Ballyogan & Carrickmines area, Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council has announced the first phase opening of the new Samuel Beckett Civic Campus located just off Ballyogan Road. This investment in the area by the Council provides for much needed new community rooms and childcare facilities as well as a new leisure centre, including gymnasium, dance and fitness studios and three all-weather astro sports pitches.

The new development marks the start of a rollout of new services that the Council has committed to as part of its current capital programme. As part of future phases of the Samuel Beckett Civic Campus additional services will be provided – these will include key public services such as an expanded leisure centre, a public library and a skate park.

The building itself was designed by internationally renowned Dublin based architects Bucholz McEvoy. In keeping with Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council's commitment to ensuring best practice in construction of municipal buildings, the new facility is designed to be low energy use, utilising techniques such as natural ventilation and maximising natural daylight and using natural and renewable materials where possible.

This is not the first time Bucholz McEvoy has designed municipal buildings for Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council as they have previously worked on the award winning Ballyogan Environmental Management Centre just down the road from the Samuel Beckett Civic Campus.

The aim of the Civic Campus project is to create a new vibrant focus for the community, providing a broad range of community facilities which will encourage and promote community engagement and active lifestyles in a visibly and physically well-connected mix of indoor and outdoor settings. Throughout the development of the Civic Campus all the buildings will be sensitively integrated into a parkland setting. More on page 2.

The construction of the Samuel Beckett Civic Centre in Ballyogan provides the area with a long awaited state of the art municipal building to help drive the provision of community services locally.

The development of the community facilities in the Samuel Beckett Civic Campus provide a brand new location and focus for community groups in the local area. Spacious modern facilities, meeting rooms, conference and training rooms will enable local groups to expand and enhance their reach in the local community.

Operating as part of dlr Leisure Services, the new gym in the Civic Campus is manned by fully trained and accredited staff who will be able to assist users whether they are complete fitness beginners or more experienced gym users - there are facilities and classes to suit all levels and abilities.

The gym provides a variety of classes including bootcamp, spin classes, strength and conditioning training, pilates and more. It also offers a variety of flexible membership packages. Over the summertime a number of Summer Camps for children and young adults will be offered, check dlrleisure.ie or their Facebook page for further details.

Director of Economic, Community and Cultural Development for the County Dearbhla Lawson commented that “The new civic campus, sits at the very heart of the literary landscape, that so inspired Samuel Beckett. The bright, modern community and leisure facilities offers a new vibrant community focus and we are delighted that it is now open for the community to use and enjoy in a lovely parkland setting”.

New County Council Website under development.

Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown County Council is in the process of redeveloping its website to make it as interactive and user-friendly as possible.

We want to improve the level of service that we provide to the residents, visitors and businesses in Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown. For residents, the new website will provide easy access to services and information, news and updates. For visitors, we will have information on attractions, directions and maps, and for existing and prospective businesses we will have information on the business and strategic infrastructure in our County.

The new website will have a modern layout and provide a much more intuitive user experience. Information will be displayed in a much clearer form with an enhanced visual aspect. Substantially improved search tools will make navigating the new site more straightforward. Final testing is currently underway and the website will go live to the public in the coming weeks.

Pottery Road Improvement Scheme officially launched

The Pottery Road Improvement Scheme was officially launched by An Cathaoirleach, Cllr Barry Saul, on 12th May. This road has undergone a substantial upgrade and now provides a new roadway, footpaths and cycle lanes for all users. Energy efficient street lighting has also been provided. Prior to these improvements, Pottery Road was in a very poor condition with virtually non-existent facilities for pedestrians and cyclists.

The construction of a new road is an onerous task and takes a considerable amount of time, not to mention money. The planning for a new road or major road improvement project involves a design and consultation process, which is approved either by the Elected Members of the County Council under Part 8 of the Planning and Development Regulations 2001, or by An Bord Pleanála, depending on the size and scope of the project. The Pottery Road project underwent its Part 8 Planning Process back in 2008.

Construction of a new road presents many challenges, not only the building of the road itself, but all the while accommodating existing traffic and maintaining existing services to all residents and/or businesses on the road.

Pottery Road is a most welcome addition to the transport infrastructure of our County and not only does it provide significant road safety measures for all road users, it is key in supporting economic development in the area.

New Councillors for Dún Laoghaire-Rathdown

Following on from the General Election and the success of Catherine Martin (GP), Josepha Madigan and Maria Bailey (both FG) in their election to the 32nd Dáil, there were three vacancies in the Council Chamber to be filled. When a Councillor leaves during their tenure, their political party co-opts in a replacement.

In situations such as this the parties follow their own selection criteria and identify replacements. At the March Council meeting the three new Councillors co-opted were Karen Furlong for the Green Party (Dundrum area) and John Kennedy (Stillorgan area) and Jim Gildea (Killiney/Shankill area) for Fine Gael. We would like to wish the new Councillors every success in their new role of representing the residents of their electoral areas.

Summer Reading in dlr Libraries is back for 2016!

In dlr Libraries we want to encourage all children to begin to read or continue to read over the summer months. This year's theme is: "Be a Summer Star".

The idea of summer reading is simple; in June, simply sign up at your local library for Summer Reading. You will be given a reading card. Each time you read a book you will get your reading card stamped, and there are great incentives all along the way including bags, swim hats, wrist bands, pencils, bookmarks and stickers to encourage all who take part.

When you fill your card with ten stamps you get to enter our competition for great prizes at a prize giving ceremony in dlr Lexlcon in September. Last year our prize winners walked away with family passes to Dublin Zoo and Airfield, as well as a digital tablet, and lots of great vouchers for dlr Leisure and IMC cinema. This year it could be you!

We have some great events lined up for Summer Reading 2016 as follows:
